COMMON JUDGMENT (Per Sri B.Prakash Rao, J)

Heard both sides. In this review application, the main grievance of the petitioner is that though the writ appeal was virtually taken into consideration in respect of direction given for consideration of the case of the writ petitioner, however, it is pointed out that after disposal of the writ petition on 09-09-1989, the Registrar has already passed orders vide Rc.No. 28817/2000/CB. III, dated 25-10-2000 cancelling the resolution, dated 02-08-1989. In view of the same, the writ appeal has become infructuous.

Recording the same, the review application is allowed and the writ appeal stands dismissed. However, it shall be open for the writ petitioner to make any fresh challenge to the said order by appropriate application. No costs.

B.PRAKASH RAO, J
